Patrícia Price Browne Prize in Biomedical Ethics

Reshma Jagsi, MD, DPhil - 2024 Recipient

Reshma Jagsi, M.D., D.Phil., is the Lawrence W. Davis Professor and Chair of the Department of Radiation Oncology and a Senior Faculty Fellow in the Center for Ethics at Emory University. Dr. Jagsi has been elected to the National Academy of Medicine, Association of American Physicians, and American Society of Clinical Investigation in recognition of her work to promote equity in health outcomes of patients and in career outcomes of physicians. Author of over 500 publications, she is PI of multiple grants from NIH and philanthropic foundations.

Her talk will focus on her research investigating women's under-representation in senior positions in academic medicine and the mechanisms that must be targeted to promote equity, which has led to numerous high-impact publications in journals like the New England Journal of Medicine and JAMA. Also a clinical trialist and health services researcher, she also leads studies to strengthen autonomy in patients with breast cancer and to individualize breast cancer care.

Active in organized medicine, she serves on the National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine's Committee on Women in Science, Engineering, and Medicine and the NIH Board of Scientific Counselors. She has received many honors, including the Marion Spencer Fay Award, the AAMC Group on Women in Science and Medicine's Leadership Award, LEAD Oncology's Woman of the Year Award, ASTRO's inaugural Mentorship Award, AMSA's Women Leaders in Medicine Award, AWIS's Meridian Award, AMA's Inspiration Award, AMWA's Woman in Science Award, and AAWR's Marie Curie Award. She is a fellow of the AAAS, ASCO, ASTRO, AAWR, and the Hastings Center.
